

40 Fathers: The Search for Father in Oneself

Who would I be if my father had been someone else? This startling and beautiful book is a valiant attempt to answer this universal and searching question. The subjects of this book set out on that search under the guidance of Jess Maghan, a world renowned expert on the subject of authority. Using forced field writing, they were able to distill their findings into essays of 350 words. Illustrated with contemporary photos of subjects and archival photos of their fathers
