

Being A Leader With Courage: How To Succeed In Your C-Level Position In 18 Months Or Less

Based on interviews with 30 CEOs, Being A Leader With Courage will help anyone currently in the C-Suite or aspiring to move up in an organization. The motivation for conducting the interviews was the authors interest in understanding why, for the past 20 years, 40%-50% of executives fail, quit, or are pushed out during the first 18 months in a new position. Christine Robins, President and CEO of Char-Broil, LLC was among the executives interviewed for the book. This is what she has said about it: Being A Leader With Courage offers pragmatic, easy to understand advice on making a difference as a leader. Unlike the books that deal with a leaders character and other soft skills, Lee has chosen to focus on behaviors and practical approaches that accelerate the alignment of an organization or team around a few initiatives that will make a difference. Any leader or manager will benefit from the ideas in this easy-to-read book. Among the other CEOs who Lee interviewed are: Gay Gadis, CEO and Founder of T3, the largest woman-owned advertising agency in the U.S., Adrienne Stevens, President of Notions Marketing Corporation, the worlds largest distributor of of creative arts products, and John Borling, retired Major General of the United States Air Force whose 37-year military career included being the Head of Operations for Strategic Air Command (SAC). The proven, practical ideas in the book can be applied immediately and will allow the reader to make a larger impact even sooner than expected. This impact includes being more successful at developing and implementing strategic and operating plans. The book also includes an on-line self assessment that takes five minutes to complete. It is designed to improve self-awareness and identify the blind spots leaders and managers may want to work on to increase the impact they have on their businesses. Readers will find

Being A Leader With Courage complements an on-boarding plan, an executive coach, and leadership assessments such as DISC and Myers-Briggs.
