

The Lesson Plan: A Workbook for Mothers & Teenage Daughters

The Lesson Plan offers a guide to mothers for preparing their teenage daughters for real-world expectations. This workbook includes lessons and activities that will enhance the mother and daughter bond through increased communication and by learning to listen to the needs of their daughters. Parents must take responsibility in preparing their children for society. This workbook will help guide Mothers through the responsibilities of proper parenting skills and the responsibilities their daughters must accept to learn to become accountable for their actions and their lives. The Lesson Plan will help mothers achieve several parental objectives:

Rebuilding failing mother/daughter relationships
Listening without being judgmental
Incorporating technology as a parental teaching tool
Building self-esteem, self-awareness, self-confidence, and self-respect
Teaching teenagers how to prepare for the work force

Becoming a good parent is a challenging process. As their daughters reach their teenage years, their family support system will help them to accept guidance from parents who have, identified ways to strengthen family relationships, determined the causes of family problems, discussed ways to solve family problems, sought sources of outside help for family problems and established and enforced house rules. Be there for your daughter when she needs you most with The Lesson Plan.
