

Dont Let The Messenger They Shoot Be You! A Survival Guide For Public Speaking

Whether you are with a major corporation or a small company . . . If you are a top executive or if you were recently hired and are starting your career . . . you should develop your public speaking skills. You will become more confident, comfortable, and convincing in every communication situation.* Every time you verbally communicate a thought or idea to another person . . . you are using a public speaking skill. When you are negotiating with another for a certain result (a large contract, or a window seat on the plane) you are using a public speaking skill. When you are urging someone to try your product or service, you are using a public speaking skill. Even when you ask or answer a question in a meeting or when walking down the hall, you are using a public speaking skill. This book will help you become more powerful and confident in every communication situation.
