

Mothers Day Out: How to Start a Business That Gives Mothers the Day Off

Shirley Eichenberger is a former teacher who resigned to become a full time homemaker when she started her family. Following a desperate search for a day out once a week, she discovered that those churches which offered a mothers day out program seemed always to be filled. After discovering information was unavailable on the concept, she put her organizational skills to work, designed an educational toddler program and enrolled toddlers who came to her home one day a week. After receiving numerous requests for copies of her successful program the need for this book became apparent. She is currently helping women across the country start this popular part time business.
