

Friends for Life: Enriching the Bond Between Mothers and Their Adult Daughters

The motherdaughter relationship is one of the most rewarding and baffling relationships a woman may ever have. Books about the parenting of children, but little has been published on mothers' connections with their grown daughters. That complex maternal relationship is explored here, in Friends for Life, a much-needed resource written by mothers for mothers. Drawing on the guidance of psychology professionals, New York moms Susan Jonas and Marilyn Nissenson interviewed over one hundred other women, asking them about their role as mothers, about their communication with their daughters, about their own needs, and about issues of independence and support. The result is a wonderfully rich, intensely personal, and nonjudgmental study of motherdaughter relations, one that reveals ways for mothers to build lifelong friendships with their daughters.
