

Comfortable In My Skin

After the divorce of my parents when I was three years old, I was left in the care of my undiagnosed psychotic grandmother. I was continually confused and neglected by my working mother. When I thought to complain to her she admonished me and said, A cat has kittens they dont bother the mother cat. Do you mean to tell me you arent as smart as a cat? I felt ashamed to be in need of parental guidance as I grew up. Then I grew resentful at my life in her home After my grandma tried to kill me the my mother came to believe I needed her help. After I married I felt that I didnt want her, or her help in my life. However, something happened that made me realize she was a good negative teacher. I am grateful we were able to improve our relationship.
