Not illustrated. 1895 Excerpt: ... a cause for the notices received, as I have so often had occasion to complain both to you and your servants of the slovenly way in which your holdings are kept; and as there has been no improvement I was obliged in self-defence to name the matter to Mr. Yerburgh, as I found others of our tenantry gradually sinking to your level. We, therefore, came to the conclusion that rather than submit to that we had better relieve you of the farms, even if we took them in hand again. I can assure you that it is no pleasure to me to be obliged to act as I have had to do, and had you not asked for an explanation I would much rather have left the matter as it originally stood, namely, a notice without comment. 40.692. You also found at the same time that the land in your opinion was very much understocked?--It was very much understocked. 40.693. (Mr. Channing.) Is it the fact that there was a larger head of stock kept upon it after Mr. Kay took the farm?--No. We always had a large head; and when he had an extra quantity of cattle on they were merely jfr. J. brought off the smaller farm on to the larger farm; the Httaso, smaller farm was shockingly neglected. 11 Feb. 1895. 40,694. (Sir Nigel Kingscote.) I am now going to ask you in reference to Mr. Kays answers to Questions 14,057 5spl6a,s ant 453 n which the Ground Game Act is alluded to PTOlence. and in which certain clauses are quoted; were those (jaation clauses issued by you or by anybody connected with you i J8--We have nothing like those in ours.
