

Lost and Found

There are no coincidences only happy little accidents, said Patsy. Ellen was not a believer in such, but a chance meeting in Arkansas and a portrait of a dead woman combined to send Ellen Fox on an adventure more mysterious than what she had bargained for when she left her comfortable surroundings to travel. She had never seen the woman, yet the woman bore a striking resemblance to her. Who was this woman? Had their lives been intertwined? If so, then who was she? Following the trail of clues, 40 years buried, took Ellen on a journey of discovery from Mississippi to England and Scotland. In solving the puzzle, she uncovered deceptions and cover-ups as well as discovered new friends, family, and love. Her life would never been the same. She had been lost but now was found.
