Frederick Albert Cook (June 10, 1865 August 5, 1940) was an American explorer, physician, and ethnographer, noted for his claim of having reached the North Pole on April 21, 1908. His expedition did discover Meighen Island, the only discovery of an island in the American Arctic by a United States expedition. In 1911 Cook published a memoir of his expedition, continuing to assert their success. His 1906 account of having reached the summit of Denali has also been discredited.
