Not illustrated. 1895 Excerpt: ... The Vindicator, The Citizen, The Southern Home, The Farmer and Mechanic, and The State Chronicle. A brilliant young man, whose untimely end carried grief not only to his own family but to thousands of the best people of North Carolina. He would no doubt have been the next governor of North Carolina. He was a member of the legislature from Charlotte, Mecklenburg county. He Was a brilliant, fearless writer,--never hinted, but said exactly what he thought, and stood by his convictions to the bitter end. No man of his years, was ever beloved by North Carolinians more than he, and his memory is held most sacred by all the best people of the State, most of whom contributed to, and erected a handsome monument over his resting place in Raleigh, N. C. His mother, Martha Ann Abbott, of Boston, Mass., was of a very large and widely connected family and most distinguished ancestry throughout that region and in London. 5.
